A PRISONER FOR LIFE.

The latest of the Union Square theatre successes, "A Prisoner for Life," will be seen for the first time in this city Friday evening at the Temple Opera house by an excellent company in the main, under the management of Shook & Collier The leading parts are intrusted to J. B. Studley, C. L. Farwell, E. L. Tilton, Master Martin, Inez Rochelle and Sarah Neville, a stronger array of talent than which is not often centered in one traveling company. The drama is adapted by Louis Nathal, of New York from a French play by Anicet-Bourgeois, and the scenes are laid in France during the reign of Louis XIV. Louise de Laurmel was married secretly to Caunt de Valney, who was imprisoned in the castle of Gen. Montreuil and word was given out that he was dead. The countess is then forced by her father to marry General Montreuil. She was his wife, however, only in name, and was kept a closely guarded prisoner. Miss Rochelle plays the part intelligently and brings out all that is in it. The whole company is a strong one and evenly balanced. The play will be repeated Saturday night.

George Stevens, superintendent of the eastern division of the Wabash road, is in the city. He reports the track of the Wabash main line in excellent condition. Within the last eighteen months seventy-two miles of new steel rail has been laid, and he is so presumptuous as to say that the main line is as good a track as that of the much-boasted-of Columbus, St. Louis and Pacific track between Columbus and Indianapolis, and the work of improvement is still in progress.

The New York World has lived in vain. After rising $100,000 to furnish a pedestal for the Bartholdi statue, it has received a letter from "a constant reader," doubtless, who wants to be informed who Bartholdi is, and why a monument should be erected in his honor. The editor of the World fainted when he read the query.

Alderman Jones of Denver, arose the other evening in the Council and said: "You are all thieves, and blacklegs! You are hypocrites, robbers, and traitors! Every one of you ought to be in the State Prison for life." And then the virtuous Alderman dodged sixteen inkstands and skipped out for home.

Mr. Gladstone is the owner of probably the longest pencil ever made. A manufacturer at Keswick has sent to him a walking stick, thirty-nine inches long, made of cedar and forming a large pencil, with a Borrowdale lead nearly half an inch square, running through it. It has a solid silver band, which bears an inscription in verse.

Mr. J. T. Trowbridge, the author of that very popular poem, "The Vagabonds," and many readable books, is now 58 years old. He was an active writer thirty years ago, and is even more active to-day. He is certainly a prosperous man of letters, and his home at Arlington, near Boston, is one of the attractive features of that place. He settled at Boston in 1850, after having worked hard, and not always profitably, with his pen, and he was soon brought into prominence by the publication of "Neighbor Jackwood," which was a strong picture of life in New England.

"He may be observed," says an exchange of Prof. David Swing, "almost any day walking leisurely through the crowded streets. A profile of his deeply-corrugated, thoughtful face suggests features of Dante. His hair is abundant and streaked with gray. His complexion is slaty. He is a man of small build, but his head is covered with a 7⅞ hat. He is very plainly dressed, and his collar is of the Byronic pattern. His tailor must make his clothes without too much style or they cannot be worn.....His mode of life is quiet, studious, and methodical, although he and his daughter have many callers to entertain, and many invitations to social festivities."

An American Characteristic.

As the dinner progressed from soup to fish, and from the entree to the roast and salad, the combined effect of the pleasant cheer and the increasing earnestness of the stove made the room warmer and warmer. They drank Chianti wine from the wicker-covered flasks, tied with tufts of red and green silk, in which they serve table wine at Florence, and said how pretty the bottles were, but how the wein did not seem very good.

"It certainly isn't so good as it used to be," said Colville.

"Ah, then you have been in Florence before," said the French lady, whose English proved to be much better than the French that he began to talk to her in.

"Yes, a great while ago; in a state of pre-existence, in fact," he said.

The lady looked a little puzzled, but interested. "In a state of pre-existence?" she repeated.

"Yes; when I was young," he added, catching the gleam in her eye. "When I was twenty-four. A great while ago."

"You must be an American," said the lady with a laugh.

"Why do you think so? From my accent?"

"From your metaphysics, too. The Americans like to talk that way."

"I didn't know it," said Coleville.

"They like to strike the key of personality; they can't endure not being interested. They must relate everything to themselves or to those with whom they are talking."

"And the French, no?" asked Coleville.

The ladies laughed again. "There is a large American colony in Paris. Perhaps we have learned to be like you."

The lady's husband did not speak English, and it was probably what they had been saying that she interpreted to him, for he smiled, looking forward to catch Coleville's eye in a friendly way, and as if he would not have him take his wife's talk too seriously.—D. W. Howells' Story, "An Indian Summer."

The Dual Skirt Reform.

The insuperable objection to the adoption of the new dress urged by Lady Harberton and Miss Phelps for women is that is hygienic. This so-called and perhaps really rational dress is the bifurcated skirt arrangement suggested a few years ago. It consists, in fact, of wide trousers flounced, and is capable of any degree of ornamentation and extension. It is nothing short of hideous. It is exceedingly awkward in appearance, and is so wide a departure from all the garments of history as to make its wearer lose a good deal of human look. But on none of these accounts will it be rejected by womankind. It can not be said that ugliness has ever caused the rejection of a costume. Any old fashion plate, going back beyond fresh remembrance, will serve to show with what hideous dresses women have abused and deformed the beautiful forms with which they have been endowed by nature. The fantastic and absurd costumes of the "incroyables," of Paris—when "during eighteen years we enjoyed ourselves devilishly well," as a court gallant said—were never more absurd than the human form encased in the crinoline of the most expansive period. Deformity through dress has been cultivated. At one time it becomes fashionable to make an appearance of embonpoint, and at another scrawniness is the rage. Large hips are shown at one time, at another narrow hips with great paniers. No one can remember the period of "tilters" without a shudder. The memory of the Grecian bend creates a nausea. The great scoop bonnets are among the ugliest of devices. As to awkwardness, no skirted trousers can compare with the "pull-backs" of recent memory. The discomfort of the proposed new garment is not likely to be more serious than the tight sleeve with which women pinch their arms until circulation is checked and atrophy is induced. No, it is not likely that the ugliness, or awkwardness, or discomfort of the dual skirt dress will prevent its adoption.

But the fact that it is hygienic, that it is supposed to subserve the cause of health, is dead against it. Doctors and women physiologists have preached against the usual corset of commerce and against tight lacing, and have patented health-corsets of every conceivable form, but all to no purpose. It has happened that for several years large waists have been fashionable, and many of these health-corsets have been used because they made the waist appear as large as that of a stout washerwoman, but that it was merely a fashion, and not the result of any physiological convictions, is shown in the return toward the vise-like corsets and the resulting spider waists. Woman will do for fashion what she will not do for health. If these bifurcated garments had been introduced simply as a novelty in dress they might have become popular.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Elkins' Cold Night.

Mr. Stephen B. Elkins, statesman and financier, came over to New York one day while star-route briers were bristling in the path of his good friend Dorsey down at Washington. He was bent on missionary work, and, mindful of the gospel injunction not to let one hand know what the other hand did, he avoided the publicity of hotel life by dropping into the up-town house of a faithful friend. He had things all to himself during the evening, his host having business that took him away. At midnight he was snugly tucked away in his bed, when ting-a-ling went the front door-bell with a brisk vehemence. Looking down upon the steps from his window, he descried a small boy in a messenger's uniform, envelope in hand. A sharp, stinging November breeze was whirling stray flakes of snow around outside, but Mr. Elkins didn't hesitate; down stairs he went in his flowing night robe and opened the door. It was, as he expected, a telegram for himself. A seductive street lamp faced that house, and, regardless of his habiliments, the distinguished gentleman then and there tore off the Western Union envelope end stepped for the moment an inch or two farther through the door. Fatal step! fatal inch or two! Swift blew the breeze of a sudden, bang went the door, click went the spring lock within. Then was sadness rampant. Not a soul within to offer rescue; scarce a garment at hand to brave the brisk weather. With trepidation there was a detour toward the house's rear; in the alley up loomed an inquisitive cur. The door-bell of a neighbor glistened temptingly; cries from an upper window call hysterically for the police. It is a doleful predicament. The cold pavement is blistering tender feet. And the cries go on, the dog's howls don't stop, the breezes still go play and seek through the linen garment, now all swelled out till the figure on the curb has the appearance of a dame in full-fledged ancient hoops. Through the street comes a carriage whirling. From the other way comes a policeman. Carriage and officer arrive at once. The policeman seems pretty sure that he has caught an escaped lunatic. The shivering gentleman tries to explain; the policeman won't have explanations. The station house is his watchword, and away he starts valiantly with his captive in the determined fashion becoming an officer whose midnight nap in the doorway has been wantonly disturbed. Open goes the carriage door; out steps the occupant. The man in the night-shirt uses that street lamp again, looks into the face of the new arrival, and once more finds voice. "Joe!" he gasps, "Joe, for heaven's sake, look here!" Joe looks. "Steve! Well, I'll be——." A crisp bill made that policeman's dreams happy through the remainder of that night. On occasions, when on sweet confidences bent, Mr. Elkins admits that frosted feet are a trifle irritating sometimes; but, like the good man that he is, he enjoys a joke too well to cheapen it by overproduction. Not a dozen friends have ever heard till now this story of midnight campaigning against breeze and dog, policeman and agitated neighbors. Mr. Elkins' testimony is very emphatic. Civilization has its drawbacks; spring-locks are a snare.—New York Times.

Liquid Glue.

With any desired quantity of glue, use ordinary whisky instead of water. Break the glue in small fragments and introduce these in a suitable glass vessel, and pour the whisky over them. Cork tightly and set aside for three or four days, when it will be ready for use, without the necessity of applying heat. Thus prepared, the mixture will keep unaltered for years and will remain permanently liquid, except in very cold weather, when it may be found necessary to place the bottle in warm water for a little time before using. The vessel in which it is kept must, of course, be kept always tightly corked, to prevent the volatilizing of the solvent.

A French formula for a liquid glue directs that a solution of eight ounces of glue be made in a half-pint of water, in the usual way, by placing it in a vessel of water until solution is effected. To the solution it is directed that 2½ ounces of strong aqua fortis (nitric acid) be added, stirring all the while. Effervescence will take place with the evolution of orange nitrous fumes. When all the acid has been added, the liquid is allowed to cool. It should be kept in a well-stoppered bottle, and will remain permanently liquid. It will neither gelatinize nor putrefy, and is said to make a very serviceable cement for various domestic uses, such as repairing cabinet-work, chinaware, etc.

Another formula directs that a jar or bottle be filled with glue broken into small fragments, and the same covered with acetic acid. It should then be placed in a vessel of hot water for several hours until all the glue is dissolved.—American Druggist.

Emery Stoors and the Millionaires.

One day a group of millionaires, who were sitting on the piazza at the United States, at Saratoga, began to chaff Storrs in a solemn fashion. He had just confessed to them that he was not worth any money, and that he had spent everything that he had made as fast as he got it. Suddenly he turned upon one of the would-be tormentors and began: "You rich fellows appear to think money-making is an intellectual process, and that the wealth acquired by you proves that you are a very superior kind of men. You are very much mistaken. There is nothing intellectual about acquisitiveness. It is merely an animal trait. It is less highly developed in you gentlemen than it is in the chipmunk. The beaver is very much your superior in this regard. Where are the rich men in history? There are two only who live in the legends of literature—Dives, who survives on account of his fortunate connection with a pauper, and Cræsus, because his name has been used by poets merely as a synonym. Gentlemen, where are the stockholders who built the Parthenon? Doubtless in their day they sat around in Athens and spoke of the fine work that Phidias was doing for them. But, gentlemen, where are the stockholders to-day and where is Phidias?" He went on in this quaint way for fully half an hour, and when he had finished even the millionaire did not seem to think that they had had the best of it.—New York World.

Frightful Case

Of a Colored Man!

I contracted a fearful case of blood poison in 1883. I was treated by some of the best physicians in Atlanta. They used the old remedies of mercury and potash, which brought on rheumatism and impaired my digestive organs. Every joint in me was swollen and full of pain. I was in a horrible condition; when I had been given up to die, my physicians, who had seen the workings of the medicine in other cases, thought it would be a splendid time to test the virtues of Swift's Specific. When I commenced taking S. S. S. the physician said I could not live two weeks under the ordinary treatment. He commenced to give me the medicine strictly according to directions, which I took for several months. I took nothing else, and commenced to improve from the first. Occasionally I would have a backset from imprudence. Soon rheumatism left me, my appetite became all right, and the ulcers, which the doctor said were the most frightful he had ever seen, began to heal, and by the first of October, 1884, I was a well man again. I am stronger now than I ever was before, and weigh more. I have not failed to report for duty since that time, being engaged in the oil warehouse of Chess-Carley Company. I have been, and still am, doing some of the hardest work any man ever did, and am ready to answer any question that may be asked concerning this cure. Swift's Specific has saved me from an early grave.

Lem McClendon.

Atlanta, Ga., April 18, 1885.

Lem McClendon has been in the employ of the Chess-Carley Company for some years, and I know the above statements to be true. At the time he began taking Swift's Specific he was in a horrible condition, and at my solicitation his treatment with S. S. S. was undertaken by a physician after several others had declared his case to be hopelessly incurable. He took nothing but S. S. S., and has been as sound as a new dollar for several months. I regard his cure almost miraculous.

CAUTION!

Consumers should not confuse our Specific with the numerous imitations, substitutes, potash and mercury mixtures, which are gotten up to sell, not on their merit, but on the merit of our remedy. An imitation is always a fraud and a cheat, and they thrive only as they can steal from the article imitated.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FINANCE.

1. We respectfully report that we have compared the reports of the clerk and treasurer for August and September with the books in their offices and find them to agree.

2. We have examined the reports of the mayor, weighmaster and market master, all of which correspond with the treasurer's books.

The poundmaster's report and treasurer's books show that the poundmaster had paid in $70 up to the 1st of September, that amount being the total sum paid by him since his installment in his office. We recommend that the committee on rules be directed to report such amendments to the cattle ordinance as will insure its enforcement more generally and provide a systematic plan for reporting the forfeits more frequently than is now required.

7. Adverse to the petition of B. D. Miner to postpone the paving of the sidewalk on Broadway from Taylor street to the Wabash railroad, as said walk is in an impassable condition.

8. Adverse to the resolution of Councilman H. A. Read for grading alley, as the common council by resolution has passed that no more work shall be ordered this season.

9. In relation to resolution of Councilman F. Schwartz, for widening Taylor street, we report having examined the different additions bordering on Taylor street and we find that Taylor street in Sturgis' second addition and Ninde's second addition, running west from Fairfield avenue, is only forty feet wide to Oakley addition, and Taylor street along Oakley addition and Sturgis' second addition is seven feet wider; we therefore recommend to make said street uniform and to have the city commissioners called out.

10. In reference to resolution of Councilman H. A. Read to place Webster street across the New Kork, Chicago and St. Louis railway in a passable condition, having been informed that Webster street had never been opened across said railway, and we also have examined the redords in the in the recorder's office, but we were unable to find the original plat of Ewing's addition; we therefore recommend that this section be referred to the city attorney.

11. The resolution of Councilman H. A. Read, referring to an outside stairway in the alley between Wayne and Berry streets, having examined the same and find the nuisance having been removed; therefore we report adverse for the present.

An Irishman was asked for his marriage certificate. He slowly lifted his hat, revealing a large scar on the head, evidently done by a flat iron. This evidence was to the point. Our certificates are the praises of those who have experienced wonderful cures by the use of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Absolutely the best Porous Plaster ever made. The Hop Plaster is composed of fresh hops, balsams and gums. Weak back, side ache, sore chest and all pains are speedily cured by its use. Apply one. Only 25 cts. at any drug store.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

What is more annoying than a sick stomach? Nichols' Bark and Iron is the only sure remedy. Its tonic and invigorating properties are unequaled. 28-4w

When Tried Always Preferred.

When they once become acquainted with it, ladies invariably prefer Parker's Hair Balsam to any similar preparation. Only 50c, at druggists.

SKIN, SCALP, BLOOD

Hundreds of letters in our possession, copies of which may be had by return mail, repeat this story: I have been a terrible sufferer for years from diseases of the skin and blood; have been obliged to shun public places by reason of my disfiguring humors; have had the best physicians; have spent hundreds of dollars, and got no relief until I used the Cuticura Remedies, which have cured me, and left my skin and blood as pure as a child's.

COVERED WITH SALT RHEUM.

Cuticura Remedies are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case of Salt Rheum in this country. My mother had it twenty years, and in fact died from it. I believe Cuticura would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the Cuticura Resolvent, internally, and Cuticura and Cuticura Soap, externally.

Newark, O. J. W. ADAMS.

HEAD, FACE AND BODY RAW.

I commenced to use your Cuticura Remedies last July. My head and face and some parts of my body were almost raw. My head was covered with scabs and sores, and my suffering was fearful. I had tried everything I had heard of in the East and West. My case was considered a very bad one. I have now not a particle of Skin Humor about me, and my case is considered wonderful.

DECATUR, MICH. MRS. S. E. WHIPPLE.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FEET.

Charles Eayre Hinkle, Jersey City Heights, N. J. writes: "My son, a lad of twelve years, was completely cured of a terrible case of Eczema by the CUTICURA REMEDIES. From the top of his head to the soles of his feet was one mass of scabs." Every other remedy and physicians had been tried in vain.

NOTHING LIKE CUTICURA.

The half has not been told as to the great curative powers of the cuticura remedies, I have paid hundreds of dollars for medicines to cure diseases of the blood and skin, and never found anything yet to equal the cuticura remedies. CHAS. A. WILLIAMS.

Providence, R. I.

One thousand three hundred and thirty water permits have been issued to date.

Bob Smith went to Indianapolis today to resume charge of the Hollywood Opera company.

There will be prayer services at the Cathedral to-night. Friday the special season of prayer closes.

Mr. Charley Bookwalter, city editor of the Gazette, is regaining his health and will be out in a day or two.

The indications for the lower lake region, as reported by the weather bureau at Washington to THE SENTINEL, are as follows: Local rains, winds generally from north to east, cooler weather.

C. F. Sudworth, editor of the Muncie Democrat, made THE SENTINEL a pleasant call this morning. Mr. Sudworth is quite a pleasant gentleman and pushes the Democrat to the front as a first class paper.

The order of railway conductors passed a resolution not to admit to their membership general yardmasters who are now known as conductor of yards on some roads. This is proper. The yardmasters have an association of their own which is worthy and needs their support.

Twenty very nice girls in costumes to represent several nationalities, will wait upon guests at the mission band fair, Thursday evening, October 29. Don't forget the place, Third church parlors, corner of Calhoun and Holman streets. Supper served from 6 to 9 o'clock. Admission ten cents and supper twenty five cents.

Dr. Leatherman, who formerly flourished here, was bailed out of jail at Greensburg Ind, by his father, a resident of Dayton, Ohio. The doctor defamed a widow and was locked up. He was about to skip from Greensburg with his father, but the widow's son and a shot gun paced the platform and the doctor remained in the city.

At Muncie, Ind., the services of a special messenger for the delivery of letters bearing the ten cent stamp has been dispensed with by the consent of the assistant postmaster general. Postmaster Patterson was not able to secure the services of any other boy than his own son, and as he has only earned eighty-eight cents in nineteen days, he wrote to headquarters requesting that the deputy postmaster be allowed to deliver what few letters arrived at that office. The request was granted, and as the deputy is an expert bicyclist, everything is lovely, very little time being necessary for a trip.

"Something should be done to punish the engineers of the Wabash railway who persist in running their trains through the city faster than the law allows," says the Lafayette Courier. "On July 4th Mrs. Stilwell was thrown from her carriage at the Seventh street crossing and was seriously injured. Not long since another lady had a very narrow escape—indeed, at the same crossing,—and yesterday a well-known lady, coming down Columbia street, her horse walking, had almost crossed the track when a passenger train running at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour came dashing along and the horse backed off the track just in time to avert a terrible catastrophe."

A young fellow named Oliver was fined $1 for provoking Mary Myers. He retaliated by having her fined for the same offense. This was a little love spat, prompted by jealousy.

To-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Ladies' society of the Plymouth Congregational church will hold a business meeting at the residence of Mrs. Dick Meyer, 22 West Wayne street.

That he will make a good agent for the Wabash no one who knows him will question.

Saturday night is the time that has been looked forward to by the rinkulators of the city. It is the opening of the Princess rink. The state supreme court has reversed the case of Sarah Mayhew vs. James Burns, appealed from the superior court. A child of James Burns fell into a vault on the property he rented from Sarah Mayhew and he got judgment against her which the supreme court puts aside, as follows: "When one knows of danger which threatens injury to himself, or those to whom he is bound to afford protection, if by reasonable exertion he can avert such injury, and negligently omits to do so, he cannot recover damages."

All the Pennsylvania railroad lines west of Pittsburg and Erie, for the nine months of 1885, show a deficiency in meeting all liabilities of $1,287,918, being an increased deficiency, as compared with the same period of 1884, of $626,079.

Eliza J. McClaren yesterday applied for a divorce from Henry McClaren. It seems Henry knocked her down and choked her the other day and yesterday the case was postponed pending the divorce proceedings. Mrs. McClaren alleges cruelty and unhuman treatment and seeks $1,500 alimony from their estate. J. R. Bittinger filed the complaint for her.

Madame Mallin, Ida Brown, Ida Miller and Maud Rayner were arrested by a constable's posse last night and were arraigned before Justice France to-day. The girls are wayward, but have money and through their attorney, Mr. Harry Borden, had their case postponed until next Tuesday. The women are accused of keeping a bagnio out on Spy Run avenue.

Mayor Muhler has a letter from the Maryland Military academy, at Oxford, Md., saying that he has the privilege of naming a student for that institution at cost of but $175 a year to the cadet, while the regular tuition is $350 a year. A Wabash official says that should the Lake Shore secure control of the seventy-nine miles of road in the Wabash system known as the Eel River division, the Wabash people would only need build some twenty-five miles of new road from the Wabash main line to Rutler to make as good a line as they now have between Peru and Detroit; therefore, there is nothing alarming in the aggressiveness of the Lake Shore people.

Inspectors A. Burt and L. E. Palmer, of the United States mail service, arrived in the city last evening and to-day installed Capt. Eugene B. Smith as transfer agent at the south depot in place of Mr. Tom Sullivan. Captain Smith has resigned his place as foreman of the Newspaper Union and will be succeeded by Walt Tigar, long assistant foreman to him. Captain Smith was sworn in this morning, but will not attend to his duties for a few days until his affairs at the Newspaper Union are perfected. At present Captain Lewis is in charge, with Mr. Gerke, recently appointed mail agent, as assistant. Captain Smith's salary is but $800 a year and it is now hinted he hesitates to accept. The salaries of the day and night agents have been equalized at $800 each.

SHE LACKED SAND.

Mrs. Electa Horen, of Fort Wayne, was seen upon the streets of Logansport by one of her old friends yesterday. She was deeply veiled and doubtless hoped to escape recognition. During the conversation that followed, Electa poured forth the burden of her sorrow that has weighed like a millstone upon her soul for the last eight months. She rehearsed the terrible suffering which she had undergone and stated that when she wrote the letter bidding farewell to her friends on earth she was sincere in her intentions to take her own life and had firmly resolved to loose the silver cord and break the golden bond. She proceeded direct from the residence to the river and as she neared the jumping off point southwest of the city, her courage failed her and she gave up the idea for the time being and returned to town. It is believed she is insane and the authorities may be called on to look after the Fort Wayne woman.

All the schools are now closed and the teachers and scholars throng the pleasant circuit court room. The feature late yesterday evening was a paper by Prof. Spencer R. Smith and a lecture by Prof. Coffin on "Ralph Waldo Emerson."

Rev. Dr. D. W. Moffat opened the institute with prayer this morning, and Prof. Charles Coffin discussed "Primary Reading." Mr. J. P. Bonnell took "Decimals" for his text and again Professor Coffin spoke on United States history. Professor Coffin, like Mr. Parsons, is very bright and it is a pleasure to hear him.

The institute is a success and the exercises are intellectually creditable and very instructive. Professor Feltz is certainly to be congratulated on his first meeting, but, unlike Mr. Hillegas, he is modest and prefers to direct affairs from a shady corner of the room.

To-night Prof. W. F. Yocum, of the M. E. college, will lecture at the institute and to-morrow night Madame Gray will deliver her celebrated lecture.

There Shall be no Alps.

When Napoleon talked of invading Italy one of his officers said: "But, sire, remember the Alps." To an ordinary man these would seemed simply insurmountable, but Napoleon responded eagerly: "There shall be no Alps." So the famous Simplon was passed. Disease, like a mountain, stands in the way of fame, fortune and honor to many who by Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" might be healed and so the mountain would disappear. It is specific for all blood, chronic lung and liver diseases, such as consumption (which is scrofula of the lungs), pimples, blotches, eruptions, tumors, swellings, fever-sores and kindred complaints.

Some of the managers say they will be glad to close on Sunday if the law is uniformly enforced.

The Bayse Dramatic company presented this famous play at the Academy last night and indeed did it so cleverly, that THE SENTINEL is pleased to propose a repetition some evening this week. This company is excellent in many respects and will appear to fine advantage in "Miss." The prices at the Academy are popular and the house cosy and comfortable.

A PRISONER FOR LIFE.

The latest of the Union Square theatre successes, "A Prisoner for Life," will be seen for the first time in this city Friday evening at the Temple Opera house by an excellent company in the main, under the management of Shook & Collier. The leading parts are intrusted to J. B. Studley, C. L. Farwell, E. L. Tilton, Master Martin, Ivex Rochelle and Sarah Neville, a stronger array of talent than which is not often centered in one traveling company. The drama is adapted by Louis Nathal, of New York from a French play by Ancet-Bourgeois, and the scenes are laid in France during the reign of Louis XIV. Louise de Laurmel was married secretly to Count de Valney, who was imprisoned in the castle of Gen. Moutreuil and word was given out that he was dead. The countess is then forced by her father to marry General Montreuil. She was his wife, however, only in name, and was kept a closely guarded prisoner. Miss Rochelle plays the part intelligently and brings out all that is in it. The whole company is a strong one and evenly balanced. The play will be repeated Saturday night.

George Stevens, superintendent of the eastern division of the Wabash road, is in the city. He reports the track of the Wabash main line in excellent condition. Within the last eighteen months seventy-two miles of new steel rail has been laid, and he is so presumptuous as to say that the main line is as good a track as that of the much-boasted-of Columbus, St. Louis and Pacific track between Columbus and Indianapolis, and the work of improvement is still in progress.

I have found it especially beneficial in nervous or physical exhaustion, and in all debilitating diseases that lead to it, and in all debilitating diseases that lead to it, and cheerfully recommend it as being a safe and reliable remedy."

OLDEN TIMES

The formula by which Mishler's Herb Bitters is compounded is over two hundred years old, and of German origin. The entire range of proprietary medicines cannot produce a preparation that enjoys so high a reputation in the community where it is made as

It is the best remedy for Kidney and Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Cramps in the Stomach, Indigestion, Malaria, Periodical Complaints, etc. As a Blood Purifier, it has no equal. It tones the system, strengthening, invigorating and giving new life.

The late Judge Hayes, of Lancaster Co., Pa., an able jurist and an honored citizen, once wrote: "Mishler's Herb Bitters is very widely known, and has acquired a great reputation for medicine, and in all deliberating others in that line of business, I do not hesitate to say that I have used myself and in my family several bottles, and I am satisfied that the reputation is well merited."

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 28, 1885.

THE New York World has lived in vain. After rising $100,000 to furnish a pedestal for the Bartholdi statue, it has received a letter from "a constant reader," doubtless, who wants to be informed who Bartholdi is, and why a monument should be erected in his honor. The editor of the World fainted when he read the query.

ALDERMAN JONES of Denver, arose the other evening in the Council and said, "You are all thieves, and blackleggs! You are hyper-crites, robbers, and traitors! Every one of you ought to help the State Prison for life." And then the virtuous Alderman dodged sixteen inkstands and skipped out for home.

MR. GLADSTONE is the owner of probably the longest pencil ever made. A manufacturer at Keswick has sent to him a walking stick, thirty-nine inches long, made of cedar and forming a large pencil with a Borrowdale lead nearly half an inch square, running through it. It has a solid silver band, which bears an inscription in verse.

MR. J. T. TROWBRIDGE, the author of that very popular poem, "The Vagabonds," and many readable books, is now 58 years old. He was an active writer thirty years ago, and is even more active to-day. He is certainly a prosperous man of letters, and his home at Arlington, near Boston, is one of the attractive features of that place. He settled at Boston in 1850, after having worked hard, and not always profitably, with his pen, and he was soon brought into prominence by the publication of "Neighbor Jackwood," which was a strong picture of life in New England.

"He may be observed," says an exchange of Prof. David Swing, "almost any day walking leisurely through the crowded streets. A profile of his deeply-corrugated, thoughtful face suggests features of Dante. His hair is abundant and streaked with gray. His complexion is slaty. He is a man of small build, but his head is covered with a 7¼ hat. He is very plainly dressed, and his collar is of the Byronic pattern. His tailor must make his clothes without too much style or they cannot be worn. His mode of life is quiet, tedious, and methodical, although he and his daughter have many callers to entertain, and many invitations to social festivities."

An American Characteristic.

As the dinner progressed from soup to fish, and from the entree to the roast and salad, the combined effect of the pleasant cheer and the increasing earnestness of the stove made the room warm and warmer. They drank Chianti wine from the wicker-covered flasks, tied with tufts of red and green silk, in which they serve table wine at Florence, and said how pretty the bottles were, but how the wein did not seem very good.

"It certainly isn't so good as it used to be," said Colville.

"Ah, then you have been in Florence before," said the French lady, whose English proved to be much better than the French that he began to talk to her in.

"Yes, a great while ago; in a state of pre-existence, in fact," he said.

The lady looked a little puzzled, but interested. "In a state of pre-existence?" she repeated.

"Yes; when I was young," he added, catching the gleam in her eye. "When I was twenty-four. A great while ago."

"You must be an American," said the lady with a laugh.

"Why do you think so? From my accent?"

"From your metaphysics, too. The Americans like to talk that way."

"I didn't know it," said Colville.

"They like to strike the key of personality; they can't endure not being interested. They must relate everything to themselves or to those with whom they are talking."

"And the French, no?" asked Colville.

The ladies laughed again. "There is a large American colony in Paris. Perhaps we have learned to be like you."

The lady's husband did not speak English, and it was probably what they had been saying that she interpreted to him, for he smiled, looking forward to catch Colville's eye in a friendly way, and as if he was not to have him take his wife's talk too seriously.—W. D. Howells' Story, "An Indian Summer."

The Dual Skirt Reform.

The insuperable objection to the adoption of the new dress proposed by Lady Harberton and Miss Pierpont for women is that it is hygienic. The so-called and perhaps really rational dress is the bifurcated suit. Any movement suggest that a few years ago, it would, in fact, of wide trousers combined, and is capable of any degree of extension and extension. It is nothing short of hideous. It is exceedingly awkward in appearance, and is so wide a departure from all the garments of history as to make its wearer lose a good deal of human look. But on none of these accounts will it be rejected by womankind. It can not be said that ugliness has ever caused the rejection of a costume. Any old fashion plate, going back beyond fresh remembrance, will serve to show with what hideous dresses women have abused and deformed the beautiful forms with which they have been endowed by nature. The fantastic and absurd costumes of the "incroyables," of Paris—when "during eighteen years we enjoyed ourselves incredibly well" as a court gallant said—were never more absurd than the human form encased in the crinoline of the most expansive period. Deformity through dress has been cultivated. At one time it becomes fashionable to make an appearance of embonpoint, and at another scrawniness is the rage. Large hips are shown at one time, at another narrow hips with great panniers. No one can remember the period of "tilters" without a shudder. The memory of the Grecian bend creates a nausea. The great scoop bonnets are among the ugliest of devices. As to awkwardness, no skirted trousers can compare with the "pull backs" of recent memory. The discomfort of the proposed new garment is not likely to be more serious than the tight sleeve with which women pinch their arms until circulation is checked and atrophy is induced. No, it is not likely that the ugliness, or awkwardness, or discomfort of the dual skirt dress will prevent its adoption.

But the fact that it is hygienic, that it is supposed to subserve the cause of health, is dead against it. Doctors and women physiologists have preached against the usual corset of commerce and against tight lacing, and have patented health-corsets of every conceivable form, but all to no purpose. It has happened that for several years large waists have been fashionable, and many of these health corsets have been used because they made the waist appear as large as that of a stout washerwoman, but that it was merely a fashion, and not the result of any physiological conviction, is shown in the return toward the vise-like corsets and the resulting spider waists. Woman will do for fashion what she will not do for health. If these bifurcated garments had been introduced simply as a novelty in dress they might have become popular.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Elkins' Cold Night.

Mr. Stephen B. Elkins, statesman and financier, came over to New York one day while star-route briers were bristling in the path of his good friend Dorsey down at Washington. He was intent on missionary work, and, mindful of the gospel injunction not to let one hand know what the other hand did, he avoided the publicity of hotel life by dropping into the up-town home of a faithful friend. He had things all to himself during the evening, his host having business that took him away. At midnight he was snugly tucked away in his bed, when ting-a-ling went the front door-bell with a brisk vehemence. Looking down upon the steps from his window, he descried a small boy in a messenger's uniform, envelope in hand. A sharp, stinging November breeze was whirling stray flakes of snow around outside, but Mr. Elkins didn't hesitate; down stairs he went in his flowing night robe and opened the door. It was, as he expected, a telegram for himself. A seductive street lamp faced that house, and, regardless of his nakedness, the distinguished gentleman then and there tore off the Western Union envelope and stepped for the moment an inch or two farther through the door. Fatal step! fatal inch or two! Swift blew the breeze of a sudden, bang went the door, click went the spring lock within. Then was sadness rampant. Not a soul within to offer rescue; scarce a garment at hand to brave the brisk weather. With trepidation there was a detour toward the house's rear; in the alley up-heaved an inquisitive cur. The door-bell of a neighbor glistened temptingly; cries from an upper window call hysterically for the police. It was a doleful predicament. The cold pavement is blistering tender feet. And the cries go on, the dog's howls don't stop, the breeze still go play and scud through the linen garment, now all swelled out till the figure on the curb has the appearance of a dame in full-fledged ancient hoops. Through the street comes a carriage whirling. From the other way comes a policeman. Carriage and officer arrive at once. The policeman seems pretty sure that he has caught an escaped lunatic. The shivering gentleman tries to explain; the policeman won't have explanations. The station house is his watchword, and away he starts valiantly with his captive in the determined fashion becoming an officer whose last night nap in the doorway has been wantonly disturbed. Open goes the carriage door; out steps the occupant. The man in the night shirt uses that street lamp again, looks into the face of the new arrival, and once more finds voice. "Joe!" he gasps, "Joe, for heaven's sake, look here!" Joe looks. "Steve! Well, I'll be——" A cruel pall hides that policeman's dreams happy through the remainder of that night. On occasions, when on sweet social dreams bent, Mr Elkins admits that frosted feet are a trifle irritating sometimes, but, like the good man that he is, he enjoys a joke too well to cheapen it by overproduction. Not a dozen friends have ever heard till now this story of midnight campaigning against breeze and dog, policeman and astonished neighbors. Mr Elkins' testimony is very emphatic. Civilization has its drawbacks; spring-locks are a snare.—New York Times.

Liquid Glue.

With any desired quantity of glue, use ordinary whisky instead of water. Break the glue in small fragments and introduce these in a suitable glass vessel, and pour the whisky over them. Cork tightly and set aside for three or four days, when it will be ready for use, without the necessity of applying heat. Thus prepared, the mixture will keep unaltered for years and will remain permanently liquid, except in very cold weather, when it may be found necessary to place the bottle in warm water for a little time before using. The vessel in which it is kept must, of course, be kept always tightly corked, to prevent the volatilizing of the solvent.

A French formula for a liquid glue directs that a solution of eight ounces of glue be made in a half-pint of water, in the usual way, by placing it in a vessel of water until solution is effected. To the solution it is directed that 2½ ounces of strong aqua fortis (nitric acid) be added, stirring all the while. Effervescence will take place with the evolution of orange nitrous fumes. When all the acid has been added, the liquid is allowed to cool. It should be kept in a well-stoppered bottle, and will remain permanently liquid. It will neither gelatinize nor putrefy, and is said to make a very serviceable cement for various domestic uses, such as repairing cabinet-work, chinaware, etc.

Another formula directs that a jar or bottle be filled with glue broken into small fragments, and the same covered with acetic acid. It should then be placed in a vessel of hot water for several hours until all the glue is dissolved.—American Druggist.

Emery Stoors and the Millionaires.

One day a group of millionaires, who were sitting on the piazza at the United States, at Saratoga, began to chaff Storrs in a solemn fashion. He had just confessed to them that he was not worth any money, and that he had spent everything that he had made as fast as he got it. Suddenly he turned upon one of the would-be tormentors and began: "You rich fellows appear to think money-making is an intellectual process, and that the wealth acquired by you proves that you are a very superior kind of men. You are very much mistaken. There is nothing intellectual about acquisitiveness. It is merely an animal trait. It is less highly developed in you gentlemen than it is in the chipmunk. The beaver is very much your superior in this regard. Where are the rich men in history? There are two only who live in the legends of literature—Dives, who survives on account of his fortunate connection with a pauper, and Crœsus, because his name has been used by poets merely as a synonym. Gentlemen, where are the stockholders who built the Parthenon? Doubtless in their day they sat around in Athens and spoke of the fine work that Phidias was doing for them. But, gentlemen, where are the stockholders to-day and where is Phidias?" He went on in this quaint way for fully half an hour, and when he had finished even the millionaires did not seem to think that they had had the best of it.—New York World.

I contracted a fearful case of blood poison in 1883. I was treated by some of the best physicians in Atlanta. They used the old remedies of mercury and potash, which is known as rheumatism and ingested my digestive organs. Every joint in me was swollen and full of pain. I was in a horrible condition; when I had been given up to die, my physicians, who had seen the workings of the medicine in other cases, thought it would be a splendid time to test the virtues of Swift's Specific. When I commenced taking S. S. S. the physician said I could not live two weeks under the ordinary treatment. He commenced to give me the medicine strictly according to directions, which I took for several months. I took nothing else, and commenced to improve from the first. Occasionally I would have a breakout from impudence. Soon rheumatism left me, my appetite became all right, and the ulcers, which the doctor said were the most frightful he had ever seen, began to heal, and by the first of October, 1884, I was a well man again. I am stronger now than I ever was before, and weigh more. I have not failed to report for duty since that time, being employed in the old warehouse of the Cheese Carley Company. I have been, and still am, doing some of the hardest work any man ever did, and am ready to answer any question that may be asked concerning this cure. Swift's Specific has saved me from an early grave.

LEON MCCLENDON.

Atlanta, Ga., April 18, 1885.

Leon McClendon has been in the employ of the Cheese Carley Company for some years, and I know the above statements to be true. At the time he began taking Swift's Specific he was in a horrible condition, and at my solicitation his treatment with S. S. S. was undertaken by a physician after several others had declared his case to be hopelessly incurable. He took nothing but S. S. S., and has been as sound as a new dollar for several months. I regard his cure almost miraculous.

could express the agony I endured from Rheumatism, and it was all I could do to endure it. Crippled, not able to walk or sleep, I took two-thirds of a bottle of ATHLOPHOROS and in a few days was well." T. E. CHATFIELD, 265 12th Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.

Such is the universal testimony of all who have used ATHLOPHOROS which is the only remedy for rheumatism that has ever had a record to make, and it sells because it is a sure, safe, speedy cure. Athlophoros contains no opium or other dangerous or injurious ingredient. It is absolutely safe, and is so pronounced by leading physicians of the country who prescribe it regularly for neuralgia and rheumatism. If you honestly doubt as to its merit, write to the manufacturers for names of parties in your own State who have been cured of rheumatism and neuralgia by its use.

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it as prepaid on receipt of regular price $1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you try it from your druggist, but if he haven't it do not be persuaded to take something else, but order at once from us as directed.

The indications for the lower lake region, as reported by the weather bureau at Washington to THE SENTINEL, are as follows: Local rains, winds generally from north to east, cooler weather.

C. F. Sudworth, editor of the Muncie Democrat, made THE SENTINEL a pleasant call this morning. Mr. Sudworth is quite a pleasant gentleman and pushe the Democrat to the front as a first class paper.

Mr. J. B. Barnes, general superintendent of motive power on the Wabash, has built a smokeless engine, which was tested at Springfield, Ills., the other day and found to be a very admirable success. By an invention the engine consumes its own smoke.

The order of railway conductors passed a resolution not to admit to their membership general yardmasters who are now known as conductor of yards on some roads. This is proper. The yardmasters have an association of their own which is worthy and needs their support.

Twenty very nice girls in costumes to represent several nationalities, will wait upon guests at the mission band fair, Thursday evening, October 29. Don't forget the place, Third church parlors, corner of Calhoun and Holman streets. Supper served from 6 to 9 o'clock. Admission ten cents and supper twenty five cents.

Dr. Leatherman, who formerly flourished here, was bailed out of jail at Greensburg Ind, by his father, a resident of Dayton, Ohio. The doctor defamed a widow and was locked up. He was about to skip from Greensburg with his father, but the widow's son and a shot gun paced the platform and the doctor remained in the city.

At Muncie, Ind., the services of a special messenger for the delivery of letters bearing the ten cent stamp has been dispensed with by the consent of the assistant postmaster general. Postmaster Patterson was not able to secure the services of any other boy than his own son, and as he has only earned eighty-eight cents in nine days, he wrote to headquarters requesting that the deputy postmaster be allowed to deliver what few letters arrived at that office. The request was granted, and as the deputy is an expert bicyclist, everything is lovely, very little time being necessarily for a trip.

"Something should be done to punish the engineers of the Wabash railway who persist in running their trains through the city faster than the law allows," says the Lafayette Courier. "On July 4th Mrs. Stilwell was thrown from her carriage at the Seventh street crossing and was seriously injured. Not long since another lady had a very narrow escape indeed, at the same crossing, and yesterday a well-known lady, coming down Columbia street, her horse walking, had almost crossed the track when a passenger train running at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour came dashing along and the horse backed off the track just in time to avert a terrible catastrophe."

"Henry Steinbrenner, the young man, who is held on the charge of conspiracy in the Baumgartner case came down from Fort Wayne yesterday," says the Huntington News.

A young fellow named Oliver was fined $1 for provoking Mary Myers. He retaliated by having her fined for the same offense. This was a little love spat, prompted by jealousy.

To-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Ladies' society of the Plymouth Congregational church will hold a business meeting at the residence of Mrs. Dick Meyer, 22 West Wayne street.

Joseph H. Kincaid has proceeded in court to get a divorce from Laura Kincaid. J. E. K. France has the complaint snugly in his pocket, but it is surmised all was not love in the Kincaid household.

P. A. Lynn, general traveling agent of the Union line, with headquarters at Fort Wayne, has been appointed agent of the Wabash road at Indianapolis, vice L. L. Fellows. Mr. Lynn, for some years, represented the Union Star line at Indianapolis, as their soliciting freight agent, and did good work. That he will make a good agent for the Wabash no one who knows him will question.

Saturday night is the time that has been looked forward to by the rinkulators of the city. It is the opening of the Princess rink. That popular resort has during the summer been beautified by the painters, and under the glare of the electric looks very pretty. The floor is in better condition than ever, and the skate room and skates, are all in excellent order, and will be kept so by the competent men in charge.

Miss Carrie Hill is advertised at Huntington as "Miss Marie Coryle, the star of the west and queen of the rollers, will appear at the Lime city skating rink, Wednesday evening, October 28, 1885, in her great musical skating act, performing difficult feats on roller skates while playing the violin in the most accomplished manner." Miss Hill will appear with the Darlington Brothers at the Warsaw rink Thursday night.

The state supreme court has reversed the case of Sarah Mayhew vs. James Burns, appealed from the superior court. A child of James Burns fell into a vault on the property he rented from Sarah Mayhew and he got judgment against her which the supreme court puts aside, as follows: "When one knows of danger which threatens injury to himself, or those to whom he is bound to afford protection, if by reasonable exertion he can avert such injury, and negligently omits to do so, he cannot recover damages."

Charley Weller was fined $11 by Justice France for hunting on Sunday.

There was no police court this morning and the mayor's office was deserted.

There are renewed rumors of Lackawanna securing control of the Nickel plate.

Miss Hattie Kimball is at Boston, the guest of her uncle and may remain there all winter.

Mathous L. Swank and Mary F. Preble, John Troth and Lizzie Hock, have been licensed to wed.

The art department of Westminister Seminary will be open Friday afternoon and THE SENTINEL acknowledges an invitation to send a representative.

The circuit court is not in session, but Harry Metzgar persists in clinging to his desk. Of course the attendance of pretty school teachers has nothing to do with his attention to business.

All the Pennsylvania railroad lines west of Pittsburg and Erie, for the nine months of 1885, show a deficiency in meeting all liabilities of $1,287,918, being an increased deficiency, as compared with the same period of 1884, of $626,079.

THE SENTINEL learns that while a farmer near Sheldon was grinding sugar cane to make sorghum molasses, a three-year-old son fell into the mill and had his right arm ground to a pulp and his collar bone broken. His name could not be learned.

Mr. J. R. Bittinger is abroad with his hatchet. The papers made him fifty-three years old yesterday and overestimated his age by nine years. This, of course, Mr. Bittinger does not propose to stand, while Ras Chittenden and Mr. Drake are left alone.

This morning occurred the death of the infant daughter of Frank E. and Mary Zimmerman, aged two months. The funeral will take place from the parents residence, 77 Baker street on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Friends of the family are invited to attend, without further notice.

Eliza J. McClaren yesterday applied for a divorce from Henry McClaren. It seems Henry knocked her down and choked her the other day and yesterday the case was postponed pending the divorce proceedings. Mrs. McClaren alleges cruelty and unhuman treatment and seeks $1,500 alimony from their estate. J. R. Bittinger filed the complaint for her.

Madame Mallin, Ida Brown, Ida Miller and Maud Rayner were arrested by a constable's posse last night and were arraigned before Justice France to-day. The girls are wayward, but have money and through their attorney, Mr. Harry Borden, had their case postponed until next Tuesday. The women are accused of keeping a bagnio out on Spy Run avenue.

Mayor Mubler has a letter from the Maryland Military academy, at Oxford, Md., saying that he has the privilege of naming a student for that institution at cost of but $175 a year to the cadet, while the regular tuition is $350 a year. Mr. Mubler is anxious to confer the honor on some young man who desires to pursue his studies so advantageously, and applicants are invited to call on him.

A Wabash official says that should the Lake Shore secure control of the seventy-nine miles of road in the Wabash system known as the Eel River division, the Wabash people would only need build some twenty-five miles of new road from the Wabash main line to Butler to make as good a line as they now have between Peru and Detroit; therefore, there is nothing alarming in the aggressiveness of the Lake Shore people.

Charles and Adam Popp were arrested this morning for assaulting Jacob Schapp. The case will be tried by Justice Ryan to-morrow.

Rev. Dr. Sihler's body will lie in state in the St. Paul's Lutheran church Friday morning and in the afternoon the funeral will occur, and be one of the largest if not the largest in the history of Allen county.

Inspectors A. Burt and L. E. Palmer, of the United States mail service, arrived in the city last evening and to-day installed Capt. Eugene B. Smith as transfer agent at the south depot in place of Mr. Tom Sullivan. Captain Smith has resigned his place as foreman of the Newspaper Union and will be succeeded by Walt Tigar, long a sistant foreman to him. Captain Smith was sworn in this morning, but will not attend to his duties for a few days until his affairs at the Newspaper Union are perfected. At present Captain Lewis is in charge, with Mr. Gerke, recently appointed mail agent, as assistant. Captain Smith's salary is but $800 a year and it is now hinted he hesitates to accept. The salaries of the day and night agents have been equalized at $800 each.

SHE LACKED SAND.

Mrs. Electa Horen, of Fort Wayne, was seen upon the streets of Logansport by one of her old friends yesterday. She was deeply veiled and doubtless hoped to escape recognition. During the conversation that followed, Electa poured forth the burden of her sorrow that has weighed like a millstone upon her soul for the last eight months. She rehearsed the terrible suffering which she had undergone and stated that when she wrote the letter bidding farewell to her friends on earth she was sincere in her intentions to take her own life and had firmly resolved to loose the silver cord and break the golden bowl. She proceeded direct from the residence to the river and as she neared the jumping off point southwest of the city, her courage failed her and she gave up the idea for the time being and returned to town. It is believed she is insane and the authorities may be called on to look after the Fort Wayne woman.

IT GROWS.

All the schools are now closed and the teachers and scholars throng the pleasant circuit court room. The feature late yesterday evening was a paper by Prof. Spencer B. Smith and a lecture by Prof. Coffin on "Ralph Waldo Emerson."

Rev. Dr. D. W. Moffat opened the institute with prayer this morning, and Prof. Charles Coffin discussed "Primary Reading." Mr. J. P. Bonnell took "Decimals" for his text and again Professor Coffin spoke on United States history. Professor Coffin, like Mr. Parsons, is very bright and it is a pleasure to hear him.

The institute is a success and the exercises are intellectually creditable and very instructive. Professor Feltz is certainly to be congratulated on his first meeting, but, unlike Mr. Hillegas, he is modest and prefers to direct affairs from a shady corner of the room.

To-night Prof. W. F. Yocum, of the M. E. college, will lecture at the institute and to-morrow night Madame Gray will deliver her celebrated lecture.

Genuine Diamonds Found in Tea and Coffee.

The Empire Mills, of New York, have opened a store in this city, in the old Mayer House, on Calhoun street, for the purpose of introducing their new brands of Tea and Coffee, which are put up in paper cans; Coffee can and contents, about 3 pounds; Tea can and contents, about 1¼ pounds. As an extra inducement to purchasers this company will pack in each can of Coffee and Tea a souvenir or present, running in amount from 10c to $50, consisting of Nickel, Silver and solid Gold Watches, genuine Diamonds in solid Gold Settings and other jewelry. This company has adopted this expensive method so as to thoroughly advertise their goods in Fort Wayne and vicinity in the shortest time possible; but after thirty days this choice Tea and Coffee will be sold wholly on their merits by their agent in Fort Wayne at the same price, same quantity and same quality, but without the souvenirs, the Tea and Coffee being worth at a fair retail value more than the price asked without any regard to the souvenirs. This company is an old and well established one. It has already appointed over fifty agents in the various cities, none of whom are now selling souvenirs with their goods, yet each agent has a large and rapidly growing trade, as the superior quality of their Tea and Coffee becomes known. Prices: Single can, $1; six cans, $5; thirteen cans, $10; twenty-seven cans, $20. Send in your orders by mail accompanied by cash or post-office order and they will be forwarded to any address.

How Shall It Be Met.

When Napoleon talked of invading Italy one of his officers said "But, sire, remember the Alps." To an ordinary man these would seemed simply insurmountable, but Napoleon responded eagerly: "There shall be no Alps." So the famous Simplon was passed. Disease, like a mountain, stands in the way of fame, fortune and honor to many who by Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" might be healed and so the mountain would disappear. It is specific for all blood, chronic lung and liver diseases, such as consumption (which is scrofula of the lungs), pimples, blotches, eruptions, tumors, swellings, fever sores and kindred complaints.
